

Four Wheelie Press

*Official Newsletter for Author Tracee Lydia Garner
Fall 2007*

In this issue:

Meet the Watt Women

The Graduate

First non-fiction book project

What's New@ Teegarner.com

MEET THE WATT WOMEN

There's something about sisters. While the powers that be gave me just a big old brother, I looked forward to exploring the lives and antics of these three sisters, Geena, the oldest, Vashton, the middle child and Ellie the baby of the family, in my fourth title Love Unchosen. They have a bond, well, I should say they are working on it... Being career driven can have its down sides leaving each of them absolutely no time for love. Love Unchosen is three stories in one good sized book. It starts with Geena, the oldest; she always has this way of making a mess. See she scheduled three appointments for a new doctor's office only she's not the receptionist, she's the interior designer and the doctor wasn't in. According to the newspaper, the place was going to open in one week. Geena's little fib upsets the good doctor, Justin Webster and though she promises she can get the place completely renovated in one week, he's not so sure. Probably because his attraction to Ms. Watt's tells him this hook up will end in disaster or love. He'd prefer disaster so he could just say I told you so.

Vashton, the middle sister arrives to help Geena with her new business, only she's given her sister just 3 short months, to get in, get the job done and get back to her dull, boring life. Do you think middle children always feel a struggle against opposing forces or is this just a stereotype? Vashton, feels as if love just isn't her cup of tea. Always awkward, always the clumsiest of the three meets Romayo Payton and his nephew whom he's now raising are just the right remedy. The kid, who wouldn't love him, but to get his sexy uncle too? Now, that's a great coop.

Then there's Ellie. Super cute, short, petite little woman and she hates the holidays? How unfortunate. It is the perfect time to fall in love. She isn't very willing, though. Enter Houston Montgomery, he has a daughter. She's a fourteen year old brat meeting her father for the first time. When they charge into the Watt's Your Style offices, their bickering so much, Ellie believes they missed the family and relationship counselor's office two suites down the hall. She'd fix their relationship, they reach out to the needy part of her, but it's the kid that gets on Ellie's last nerve. Ungrateful, unforgiving, unreasonable, such characteristics make Ellie resent the ungrateful little urchin and long for the daughter she lost years ago. I hope you enjoy visiting with the Watt women. There's even a book discussion guide at the end so be sure to write me with your thoughts.

THE GRADUATE

I have never been a true academic scholar. People think I'm smart and I tell them it's the glasses. (Can't say that anymore since I started wearing contacts) but in May 2008, I will realize a long and hard journey won as I finally graduate from Old Dominion University. For me, this is a major accomplishment that I'm extremely proud of. Not to mention it's the only single most important thing worthy enough to keep me from my publishing goals. Now that it's coming to end, ceremonies are underway to celebrate my academic achievements; I'm ready to jump back in the ring!

Thank you to all of those that sent well wishes, I appreciate your encouragement and yes coupled with "Where's your next book?!" it's been very nice to hear people still looking for me. I'm finally back and hope you'll enjoy reading all about my newest offering.

1ST NON-FICTION BOOK PROJECT

I have a little space to tell you about my future book venture. My colleagues (they're actually very good friends of mine) and I are working on our first book about disability. We hope it will be out soon but we need your help. If you are or you know someone with a disability, please share news with them about being a possible contributor to this project. Their name, city and state will appear if their tip is used. You can read the entire Request for Stories (RFS) at www.Teegarner.com/abledata. I hope you/your friends or relatives with disabilities would like to participate. Well, until next time, enjoy and please grab your copy of Love Unchosen, today.

3 EASY WAYS TO ORDER LOVE

UNCHOSEN

Love Unchosen – 3 options to get your copy...

1. For the cheapest discounts Call Author House DIRECT at 1-888 280-7715 or visit authorhouse.com and click on "bookstore"
2. Purchase through all Internet Booksellers Barnes and Noble, Book's A Million, Amazon and Borders Books
3. Ask for it at your local book store

If you encounter any difficulty, just send me a note at Teegarner.com

What's New at Teegarner.com

- All updated pages
- Short story for Angie and Jojo (the Jameson's) –coming Christmas 2007
- Short story for Gina and Tony (the Jameson's) –coming Christmas 2007

- Meet cover designer/artist Marilee M.Adamski –coming soon